THIS CASE ORIGINATED AT

NEW YORK

REPORT MADE AT NEW YORK	DATE WHEN MADE 12/20/54	PERIOD FOR WHICH MADE 10/23, 25, 27, 28, 29; 11/1-5, 8, 10, 12, 15, 16, 18, 22, 29/54	REPORT MADE BY HERBERT D. CLOUD, JR.
TITLE IAN ROBERT MAXWELL, was			CHARACTER OF CASE ESPIONAGE - R & GE

SYNOPSIS OF FACTS:

Subject arrived NYC 10/23/54 from London; resided Congressional Hotel, Washington, D.C., from 10/24 - 10/28/54 while contacting U.S. State Department for visa extension. Subject's activities in Washington, D.C., and NYC until 10/30/54 involved personal and telephonic contacts with AEC officials and scientists who are members of newly formed "American Nuclear Society." Interviews of contacted AEC officials revealed MAXWELL, Chairman of the Board of Pergamon Press, London, England, publisher of technical publication "Journal of Nuclear Science," proposed to AEC officials Pergamon Press would publish an American edition of "Journal of Nuclear Science" with Editorial Board consisting of "American Nuclear Society" members. Pergamon Press would accept financial losses connected with American Magazine in order to be activated in U.S. AEC officials noted no ulterior motives during MAXWELL'S contacts. T-1, [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Subject's background known to authorities who approve publication of "Journal." Other contacts of Subject while in U.S. set out, MAXWELL returned to England 10/30/54.

DETAILS:

Subject's Arrival in United States,
October 23, 1954

Inspector RAYMOND S. KELLOGG, Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS), Idlewild Airport, New York, on October 23, 1954 telephonically advised that the subject arrived at Idlewild Airport on that date aboard BOAC Flight 509 from London. The subject had informed INS representatives that he was en route to Washington, D.C., and intended to reside at the Congressional Hotel there while he petitioned the State Department for a visa extension, which was valid until October 31, 1954. The subject indicated that his business in Washington would keep him there approximately five days, after which he would travel to Canada and then return to Washington, D.C., about October 31, 1954. The subject carried British Passport #507041.

On October 25, 1954, Mr. WALTER MANONEY, Assistant manager, Westbury Hotel, 69th Street and Madison Avenue, New York City, telephonically advised that the subject had contacted the hotel from Washington, D.C., and attempted to obtain a room reservation for October 26, 1954. MAXWELL was informed by the hotel management that there were no rooms available for October 26, 1954, however, MAXWELL stated he would be at the hotel anyway.

Subject's Activities and Contacts,
Washington, D.C., October 24 - 28, 1954;
New York City, October 28 - 30, 1954

On October 26, 1954, T-3, of unknown reliability, advised that the subject had registered at the Congressional Hotel on the afternoon of October 24, 1954. Subject did not indicate the length of time he would stay at the hotel. While at the hotel, MAXWELL made a long distance telephone call on October 25, 1954 to SPOIN (ph), New York telephone number CO7-5920 and one long distance telephone call to Trenton, New Jersey, telephone number 14400.

T-4, of known reliability, on October 25, 1954, advised the subject visited the Visa Office, Department of State, requesting a reentry permit. This permit was refused inasmuch as INS issues reentry permits.

On October 25, 1954, the subject contacted Dr. ALBERTO F. THOMPSON, Mr. ULYSSES M. STALBLER, and Mr. CHARLES D. LUKE, all officials of the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC), according to Miss EDITH GRIMES, Receptionist, AEC.

PHILIP B. SPORN

President, American Gas
& Electric Company,
AEC Consultant

The Manhattan Telephone Directory lists PHILIP SPORN, 30 Church Street, as the subscriber to telephone number CO 7-5920.

PHILIP B. SPORN was interviewed on October 27, 1954 and he advised that MAXWELL telephonically contacted him on October 25, 1954 and on the morning of October 27, 1954 from Washington, D.C. SPORN stated he had never met or heard of the subject before these telephone calls. MAXWELL advised SPORN that he was assisting Dr. J. V. DUNWORTH, Editor in Chief of the "Journal of Nuclear Science" in England. SPORN advised that DUNWORTH is also the assistant to Dr. COCHRAN, Director of the Harwell Atomic Energy Establishment, Harwell, England.

MAXWELL indicated to SPORN that he was in the United States on behalf of the "Journal of Nuclear Science" and sought assistance in setting up an American edition of the "Journal" for Dr. DUNWORTH. SPORN, who is friendly with DUNWORTH, stated that while visiting DUNWORTH at Harwell this year, he offered his general assistance in setting up an American edition of the "Journal." SPORN advised the only assistance he gave MAXWELL was to refer him to "JERRY LUNTZ," the Editor of "Nucleonics," published by McGraw-Hill.

SPORN stated that during his telephone conversation with the subject October 27, 1954, MAXWELL stated he had talked to Dr. LAWRENCE R. HAFSTED, Director of Reactor Development, Washington, D.C., Dr. WALTER H. ZINN, Director of Argonne Laboratory, Lemont, Illinois, JOHN VON NEUMANN, recently appointed AEC Director, and indicated he would talk to Dr. ALVIN M. WEINBERG, Technical Director of the Oak Ridge Laboratory, Oak Ridge, Tennessee.

On October 29, 1954, PHILIP B. SPORN telephonically advised that the subject had kept an appointment with him that day at SPORN'S office, 30 Church Street, New York City. SPORN declared that MAXWELL informed him he had discussed the proposal concerning the formation of the U.S. version of the "Journal of Nuclear Science" with Dr. JOHN VON NEUMANN, recently appointed AEC Director, LAWRENCE R. HAFSTED, Director of Reactor Development, Dr. WALTER H. ZINN, Director, Argonne Laboratory, and Dr. ALVIN M. WEINBERG, Technical Director of the Oak Ridge Laboratory, Tennessee.

According to SPORN, MAXWELL visualizes his firm, the Lange, Maxwell & Springer Publishing Company, as being the publishers of the American edition of the "Journal of Nuclear Science," with ZINN and HAFSTED as Editors and JAMES BECKERLEY, a former AEC Director of Classification, as Editor in Chief. SPORN believed BECKERLEY is presently connected with the Schlumberger Well Surveying Company of Bridgeport, Connecticut. SPORN stated MAXWELL indicated he would leave on October 30, 1954 for London and would possibly return to the United States in January, 1955.

B. JEROME (JERRIE) LUNTZ
Editor, "Nucleonics"

On October 29, 1954, JEROME LUNTZ, Editor of "Nucleonics," published by the McGraw-Hill Publishing Company, 330 West 42nd Street, New York City, advised the subject contacted him inasmuch as he is the Chairman of the "American Nuclear Society" and Editor of the "Nucleonics" magazine.

LUNTZ stated that the "American Nuclear Society" Organizing Committee consists of twenty eight American atomic scientists of some notoriety and himself. MAXWELL, according to LUNTZ, publishes the "Journal of Nuclear Energy," a high level, technical magazine put out quarterly by MAXWELL'S company, the Pergamon Press. LUNTZ advised that MAXWELL is anxious to start an American atomic energy magazine, the reason being it would help him out in his book publishing operation through good contacts. MAXWELL is seeking a mechanism to start this magazine, according to LUNTZ, and he has figured that the best way would be through the "American Nuclear Society."

According to LUNTZ, MAXWELL wants to make an offer to the "American Nuclear Society" for the publication of the American atomic energy magazine. LUNTZ continued to relate that MAXWELL has indicated he spoke to ZINN, HAFSTED, VON NEUMANN, THOMPSON, and WEINBERG, all atomic scientists and Directors of AEC establishments.

According to LUNTZ, MAXWELL'S plan is to have ZINN or HAFSTED to be Editor in Chief of the American atomic energy magazine and planned that the Directors of the AEC National Laboratories would be editors. MAXWELL would set up a fifteen man Editorial Board of American scientists. The Editors would encourage their assistants and other scientists to submit technical articles on atomic energy to the magazine. No remuneration would be involved in the submission of these articles, and MAXWELL'S company would cover the entire costs on a monthly basis.

[REDACTED]

LUNTZ advised that in arrangements of this type there are usually financial losses. MAXWELL is willing to sustain losses in order to make contacts and see that the name of his company becomes better known and established in the United States. LUNTZ added that in addition, the Editors would come across people who are preparing book manuscripts and would refer them to MAXWELL'S company, the Pergamon Press.

LUNTZ related that should the Society accept MAXWELL'S offer, it would only be on condition that the Society would have complete control and that only unclassified information would pass through to publication. He pointed out that MAXWELL would have control of the contacted scientists if the arrangement was conducted on an independent basis.

LUNTZ believed that all of the members of the "American Nuclear Society" have ABC clearance with the exception of himself. He indicated that the "American Nuclear Society" probably would not accept MAXWELL'S offer. LUNTZ learned that the Pergamon Press, MAXWELL'S company, is starting a new magazine in 1955 covering a certain portion of the nuclear field. The magazine is entitled "The Journal of Inorganic and Nuclear Chemistry." He is aware that CHARLES CARROLL, a noted nuclear physicist, is preparing a technical paper for the Pergamon Press.

LUNTZ advised that without knowing anything further about MAXWELL, his proposals and statements indicate nothing of a suspicious or ulterior nature. The fact that he is willing to sustain losses on the proposed American nuclear magazine for contacts and advertising is not "out of line," according to LUNTZ. He stated that to his knowledge it would be the first American magazine in the nuclear or any other field published by a British publishing company. LUNTZ advised that MAXWELL had an appointment at 4:30 p.m. the same day with LUNTZ.

On November 1, 1954, JEROME LUNTZ advised that the subject kept an appointment at his office at 4:30 p.m., October 29, 1954, regarding the magazine proposal. The subject, according to LUNTZ, appeared anxious to set up the magazine as quickly as possible. LUNTZ related that he informed MAXWELL that the entire proposal would be discussed at the "American Nuclear Society" executive meeting in November, 1954 and that it would be decided upon at the Board of Directors meeting of the "American Nuclear Society" in January, 1955. LUNTZ reiterated that MAXWELL'S interests and statements did not indicate any ulterior desires.

Mr. LUNTZ voluntarily furnished the press release issued by the "American Nuclear Society" in October, 1954. It is noted that originally the release listed the name of the Society as the "Society of Nuclear Scientists and Engineers" and was later changed to the "American Nuclear Society."

"SOCIETY OF NUCLEAR SCIENTISTS AND ENGINEERS
FIRST PROFESSIONAL SOCIETY IN ATOMIC FIELD, HOLDS ORGANIZATIONAL MEETING IN WASHINGTON

"WASHINGTON - A representative group of the 13,000 scientists and engineers engaged full-time in governmental,

[REDACTED]

"Industrial and educational aspects of atomic energy activity in the United States met today (Monday - Oct. 11) at the National Academy of Sciences in Washington to organize the Society of Nuclear Scientists and Engineers.

"The organizing committee and charter membership include many of the most prominent people working in this nation's atomic energy program. Included are the technical directors of each of the Governmental and industrial laboratories now working on the five-year program of nuclear reactor development recently announced by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission.

"This is the world's first professional society of scientists and engineers representative of all scientific disciplines engaged in research, development and application of nuclear technology. A principal purpose of the group is to foster the integration and advancement of nuclear science and technology through the interchange of information and ideas in all fields of research utilizing nuclear techniques.

"Change in Atomic Energy Act made Society Possible

"Preliminary planning for the formation of the Society of Nuclear Scientists and Engineers was started in "December, 1953, in anticipation of a possible change this year in the Atomic Energy Act of 1946 that would make such a society feasible for the first time. The new legislation, the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, passed by Congress and signed into law by President Eisenhower in late Summer, bore out the hopes of the group.

"A major objective of the new law is 'a program for the dissemination of unclassified technical information.. to encourage scientific and industrial progress.' To help make this possible, the Atomic Energy Commission has been given the responsibility of taking the initiative in setting up an aggressive declassification program. The organizers of SNSE (Society of Nuclear Scientists and Engineers) expect that their new society will serve as a platform for the initial full public discussion of atomic energy technological problems.

"Conference to be held in June

"SNSE has announced that it will hold its first technical conference June 27-29 on the campus of Pennsylvania State University, State College, Pa. The location for the meeting was selected partially because of Penn "State's interest in nuclear science and engineering. It now has a 'swimming pool' type of nuclear reactor under construction.

[REDACTED]

"Although nuclear power technology will be a subject of primary interest to SNSA's activities, other subjects of interest to the membership will include uses of radioisotopes in science and industry, effects of radiation on materials, radiation-sterilization of foods, etc.

"Organization encouraged by Industrial Concerns

"Although membership in the Society is open only to individual scientists and engineers, numerous corporations active in atomic energy work have supported the effort to form such a group. Included among them are American Gas and Electric Company, Babcock & Wilcox Company, Bechtel Corporation, Commonwealth Edison Company of Chicago, General Electric Company, Walter Kidde Nuclear Laboratories, Monsanto Chemical Company, Nuclear Development Associates, Pacific Gas and Electric Company, Sylvania Electric Products, and Union Carbide & Carbon Corp.

"The organizational meeting in Washington was attended by 29 scientists and engineers. (A complete list

[REDACTED]

"of the organizing committee is attached.) An additional 200 senior atomic scientists and engineers have accepted invitations to become charter members..

"membership in the Society will include persons with academic degrees in the fields of physics, chemistry, mathematics, biology, medicine and all branches of engineering, who are engaged in professional activity in one or more of the fields of nuclear science and engineering.

"Will Facilitate International Cooperation in Field

"Another purpose of the new Atomic energy Act will be served through the formation of the Society is that of international cooperation on peacetime applications of atomic energy. The group has offered to assist Admiral Lewis L. Strauss, AEC chairman, in implementation by the United States of the International Nuclear energy Conference proposed by President Eisenhower. United Nations sponsorship of such a conference is now being considered.

"membership in the Society will not be limited to U. S. citizens and it is expected that cooperative conferences will be held with foreign technical groups.

"Objectives of Society

"Objectives of the SNSE, as defined in the organization's constitution, are:

"The objects of the Society are the advancement and integration of nuclear science and engineering in theory and practice, the encouragement of research into the properties of the nuclei and other constituents of atoms, the development of methods for the application of nuclear technology and of the allied arts and sciences, and the maintenance of a high professional standing among its members.

"Among the means to this end are the holding of meetings for the reading and discussion of scientific and technical papers, the publication of papers and discussions and of communications and information in the field of nuclear science and technology, and such other activity as may be appropriate for fulfillment of the objectives of the Society."

STATEMENT OF REPRESENTATIVE STERLING COLE, CHAIRMAN, JOINT COMMITTEE ON ATOMIC ENERGY

"My congratulations to the Society of Nuclear Scientists and Engineers on the occasion of its founding.

It greatly pleases me that the leaders of American nuclear science and technology have joined together to form a professional society which can do much to advance beneficent uses of the atom.

"I deem it particularly fortunate that this new society is being founded so soon after the passage of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 which seeks to encourage -- both within our own country and with friendly nations abroad -- the dissemination and exchange of unclassified scientific and technical information and thereby to promote scientific and industrial progress and public understanding. Those of us serving in official capacities in our national atomic energy program are keenly aware of how much non-governmental bodies -- such as this new society -- can contribute to these objectives.

"It is my fervent hope and deep conviction that the founding of the SNSSE will underscore our nation's resolve to do everything in its power to further peace-time applications of the atom, and to share these benefits with decent people everywhere."

Dr. ALBERTO F. THOMPSON
Mr. ULYSSES M. STAEBLER
Dr. CHARLES D. LUKE

Dr. ALBERTO F. THOMPSON, Mr. ULYSSES M. STAEBLER, and Dr. CHARLES D. LUKE, who were interviewed by Special Agent JAMES C. MOORE, JR. on October 29, 1954, advised that MAXWELL told them he is owner of the Pergamon Press, London, England, which publishes technical magazines. MAXWELL has just published the first volume of the "Journal of Nuclear Energy" and he indicated that he was in the United States on behalf of the "Journal" to get assistance from Americans in setting up an American edition of the above "Journal."

The subject indicated that his company is affiliated with the Pergamon Press, Lange, Maxwell and Springer, 122 East 55th Street, New York City. It is noted that this address is the address of the British Book Center.

The subject informed Dr. THOMPSON, LUKE and Mr. STAEBLER that he is working with Dr. J. V. DUNWORTH of Harwell, England. It is noted that the first volume of the "Journal of Nuclear Energy" lists Dr. DUNWORTH as an Editor and he is connected with the Atomic energy research establishment at Harwell, England.

Dr. LAWRENCE R. HAFSTED

Dr. LAWRENCE R. HAFSTED, Director, Reactor Division, AEC, was interviewed by Special Agent JAMES C. MOORE, JR. on October 29, 1954. He advised that the subject contacted him in connection with the "Journal of Nuclear Energy" published by the Pergamon Press, Ltd., London, England.

According to Dr. HAFSTED, a group of scientists contribute to this journal, however, there are no American contributors. Dr. HAFSTED advised that at the present time a group of scientists in this country are in the process of organizing a society called the "Nuclear Energy Society."

According to HAFSTED, the subject wanted this group to put out a journal with American scientists as contributors and allow his company to publish the journal. Dr. HAFSTED stated that the subject requested him to be Editor in Chief of this journal. HAFSTED informed MAXWELL that since he is a Government employee, he could not help him and referred the subject to JEROME LUNTZ, Editor of "Nucleonics," 330 West 42nd Street, New York City. HAFSTED advised LUNTZ is a member of the Organizing Committee for the "Nuclear Energy Society." HAFSTED advised that the subject was introduced to him by letter from Dr. J. V. LUNWORTH, Editor in Chief, "Journal of Nuclear Energy," whom he had met in September, 1954 while in England.

Dr. JOHN VON NEUMANN
AEC Commissioner

On November 1, 1954, Dr. JOHN VON NEUMANN, Institute for Advanced Study, Princeton, New Jersey, and recently appointed AEC Commissioner, was interviewed by SA THOMAS E. KELLY. Dr. VON NEUMANN advised that on October 26, 1954 the subject telephonically contacted him and explained that he was Captain MAXWELL, Chairman of the Board of Pergamon Press, London, England, which is also associated with the "Journal of Nuclear Science," a technical publication published in England. Subject stated that he is interested in starting an Anglo-American edition of this journal in the United States. He requested VON NEUMANN to consider serving on the Editorial Board of the proposed Anglo-American edition of this journal.

The subject advised VON NEUMANN that he was also requesting Dr. LIBBY, who is also a Commissioner of the AEC, to serve on the Editorial Board. The subject mentioned to Dr. VON NEUMANN that he had conversed with Dr. LAWRENCE R. HAFSTED, Director of Reactor Development, Washington, D.C., concerning his participation with the proposed journal. Dr. VON NEUMANN advised that he did not commit himself to any of MAXWELL'S proposals, but advised MAXWELL that he would contact HAFSTED prior to making any decision.

VON NEUMANN stated that MAXWELL was unknown to him, but that he considered the proposed journal to be a feasible project in the United States. He stated that there is only one technical journal presently published in the United States and that atomic energy is such a large field that there is room for additional technical journals. Dr. VON NEUMANN advised that he intended to discuss MAXWELL'S proposal with other officials of the AEC to ascertain what their opinions might be concerning MAXWELL'S request.

Dr. JAMES G. BECKERLEY

On November 3, 1954, Doctor JAMES G. BECKERLEY, Physicist associated with the Schlumberger Well Surveying Company, Ridgefield, Connecticut, advised SA JOHN J. WARD that the subject contacted him on October 28, 1954 at his residence in Upper Marlboro, Maryland, and that they had arranged a meeting the same date at the Congressional Hotel, Washington, D.C. BECKERLEY advised that he was approached by MAXWELL in that he is a member of the newly formed "American Nuclear Society." BECKERLEY was appointed Editor pro-tem of the Society and presumed MAXWELL got his name from a "New York Times" article dated October 11, 1954.

BECKERLEY advised that the discussion with MAXWELL was limited to the possibility of the Pergamon Press handling the publication through the Society of a joint or separate journal associated with the current Pergamon publication regarding nuclear engineering work in Europe. MAXWELL indicated to BECKERLEY that he had discussed the proposal with Dr. ALVIN WEINBERG, Oak Ridge National Laboratory, ORNER LIDDELL, formerly of Bendix Aviation, Detroit, Michigan, and L. LAWORTH, Director, Brookhaven National Laboratory, Long Island, New York, prior to meeting with BECKERLEY.

BECKERLEY informed MAXWELL that he was interested, but that it was too early to make a commitment. BECKERLEY advised that he had heard of MAXWELL previously in connection with the Pergamon Press, which was somewhat suspect, but that he had never met him prior to this time. BECKERLEY considered the subject a "promoter." BECKERLEY ascertained subsequent to his contact with MAXWELL that the subject had spoken to J. H. LUNTZ of McGraw-Hill, New York City. He stated that he and LUNTZ agreed that dealings with MAXWELL should be circumspect. MAXWELL had informed BECKERLEY that he was leaving for England October 30, 1954.

Dr. ALVIN WEINBERG
Research Director
Oak Ridge National Laboratory, Tennessee

On November 4, 1954, Dr. ALVIN WEINBERG, Research Director, Oak Ridge National Laboratory, Oak Ridge, Tennessee, advised SA THEODORE A. SANDERS that on October 28 or October 29, 1954 he received a telephone call from a man who spoke with an English accent. WEINBERG advised that this man identified himself as Captain MAXWELL and represented himself to be a representative of the Pergamon Press, London, England. WEINBERG added that the Pergamon Press was the publisher of the "Journal of Nuclear Energy" which he described as a publication, European in scope. MAXWELL advised WEINBERG he was calling from New York.

WEINBERG advised that his phone conversation with the subject was to the effect that MAXWELL advised him there were some planned proposals to publish an American edition of the "Journal of Nuclear Energy" and MAXWELL asked WEINBERG if the latter would be willing to be one of the Editors of such a publication.

WEINBERG informed the subject that he would be interested, but that he would be more interested in being one of the Editors of the "Journal" as it stands at the present time. WEINBERG informed MAXWELL that he thought possibly it would be better to have the present "Journal" in the status of more of an international publication rather than to have an American edition and perhaps other editions of the "Journal." WEINBERG stated MAXWELL mentioned that some people had opposed such a proposal. According to WEINBERG, MAXWELL did not relate that the publication would deal with any particular field of nuclear energy development and such matters were not discussed in the telephone conversation.

WEINBERG advised that MAXWELL did not attempt to ferret out or solicit any information concerning the nuclear development field. WEINBERG advised that MAXWELL made some casual remark that he would like to pay WEINBERG a visit if his time permitted, but that no arrangements for a visit were discussed or formulated. WEINBERG stated that during the conversation MAXWELL did not display any particular interest in visiting Oak Ridge and the mention of the visit was only casual.

WEINBERG advised that during the conversation with the subject MAXWELL stated he had discussed the publication with Dr. LEE H. WORTH, Dr. WALTER ZINN and Dr. L. R. HASTED. WEINBERG advised that these persons were connected with the Brookhaven Laboratory, Argonne Laboratory, and with the AEC respectively.

WEINBERG advised that he was not acquainted with MAXWELL and had never heard of the subject prior to this phone conversation. He advised that subsequent to the subject's phone call he was engaged in a telephonic conversation with Dr. ZINN of the Argonne Laboratory and Dr. ZINN mentioned that MAXWELL had called him and discussed the publication.

[redacted]

T-3, of unknown reliability, determined that the subject, on October 24, 1954, called long distance to Greenwich, Connecticut, telephone number 8-6880, from Washington, D.C.

[redacted] was interviewed on November 4, 1954 by Special Agent JOHN J. WARD. [redacted] is associated with the Hambros Bank, Ltd., 149 Broadway, New York City. [redacted] advised that he is well acquainted with the subject, but not intimately so. [redacted] advised that Hambros Bank, Ltd., London, financed the subject after World War II in his first venture in the publishing business. He stated that the subject has been highly successful.

Lange, Maxwell & Springer, Incorporated, Simpkin Marshall, and Pergamon Press are British companies controlled by the subject, according to [redacted]. All three companies are engaged in publishing or distribution of books which deal mainly in scientific work in which field German work is dominant. According to [redacted] the subject's contact with Herr SPRINGER of Heidelberg, Germany, well known German publishing family, enabled him to start in the publishing business. He stated that the subject's enterprises in the United States are Lange, Maxwell & Springer and the British Book Center, both of which are located on West 55th Street, New York City. [redacted] advised that he is the director of both firms which engage in publishing and distribution of books.

[redacted] is manager of the British Book Center and [redacted] is manager of Lange, Maxwell & Springer. He declared that [redacted] is leaving the firm in November to go into business for himself.

b7D

According to [redacted] the subject is trying to activate the Pergamon Press in the United States to publish a journal on nuclear research. He advised that its United States headquarters are currently at the law firm of Lord & Lord, Cunard Building, Lower Broadway, New York City. He advised that [redacted] member of the latter firm, handles the company's affairs.

b7D

[redacted] advised that [redacted] now known as [redacted]

[redacted]

According to [redacted] Hambros Bank told [redacted] to take his account elsewhere or get a business manager, and they suggested MAXWELL, who managed [redacted] affairs for 18 months during which time he attempted to reorganize [redacted] investments. [redacted] invested four hundred thousand pounds in MAXWELL'S firm, Simpkin, Marshall. [redacted] said that he heard of an attempt to sell prefabricated houses in the South of the United States, but has no knowledge of this deal. He understood that "great barter deals" were going on to reorganize [redacted] affairs.

According to [redacted] MAXWELL encountered trouble with the British Exchange Control over [redacted] affairs, which resulted in MAXWELL breaking his contract with the latter. [redacted] threatened a law suit and [redacted] and MAXWELL have parted company. [redacted] added that [redacted] four hundred thousand pounds are still invested in Simpkin Marshall.

[redacted] advised that the subject is regarded by Hambros Bank as a man of integrity, although somewhat wild in business. It is [redacted] opinion that although the subject has made money by British standards, his ideas for new ventures outrun his financial resources. [redacted] stated that the subject banks with the New York Trust Company, 100 Broadway, New York City.

[redacted] advised that he has no information that the subject is connected with British intelligence, but assumed that he may have been during World War II. He described the subject as a brilliant linguist, adding that he was born in Ruthenia, Czechoslovakia, and immigrated to Hungary prior to World War II where he landed in jail. [redacted] believed that he landed in jail in Hungary because of his anti-Communist activities, however [redacted] did not know the details concerning this.

[redacted] advised the subject entered England shortly prior to World War II and rose to Captain in the British Army which is unusual for a non-Britisher. He believed that MAXWELL is not the subject's true name, but that he has used it since his arrival in England. He

Director, Argonne National Laboratory
Lemont, Illinois

On November 9, 1954, Dr. WALTER H. ZINN was interviewed by Special Agent JAMES R. OLIVER. He advised that the subject telephonically contacted him on October 29, 1954, identifying himself as Captain I. N. MAXWELL, President of the Pergamon Press, London, England, publishers of scientific books and publisher of the new British scientific magazine, "Journal of Nuclear Energy."

According to Dr. ZINN, MAXWELL referred to the discussion that had taken place in Harwell, England, in early September, 1954 between Dr. ZINN and Dr. LAWRENCE A. HASTED, Director of Reactor Development, AEC, Washington, D.C., and the British scientist Dr. J. V. DUNWORTH, Atomic Energy Research Establishment, Harwell, regarding the possibility of permitting the participation of leading American nuclear scientists in contributing material for the magazine and serving as members of the Board of Advisors.

ZINN and HASTED had learned while in England that the "Journal of Nuclear Energy," which issued its first volume on October 1, 1954, was backed by the leading nuclear scientists in England and Western European countries, but did not include American participation. ZINN and HASTED thought the publication of unclassified information in the field of nuclear science in the form of a magazine such as the "Journal of Nuclear Energy" was an excellent idea, but suggested that the exchange of such information should be on a worldwide basis, and they asked Dr. DUNWORTH why the United States was being enroled.

According to Dr. ZINN, Dr. DUNWORTH, who is Editor in Chief of the "Journal of Nuclear Energy," indicated that he and others were doubtful about United States response to participation. ZINN did not see, nor hear of MAXWELL while they were in England. According to Dr. ZINN, when MAXWELL telephonically contacted him on October 29, 1954, he indicated that Pergamon Press and the British scientists affiliated with the "Journal" had discussed American participation in contributing material for the "Journal" and felt that they were now ready to ask leading American nuclear scientists to participate in the magazine. MAXWELL wanted to know if ZINN would become one of the editors. ZINN told MAXWELL that he would have to withhold his answer until a later date. Thereafter, ZINN telephonically conversed with several leading American nuclear scientists. ZINN informed MAXWELL, upon receipt of a second phone call from him, that after discussing the "Journal" with other scientists, he learned that several American scientists thought the matter was a good idea, but none was ready to give a definite answer at the time.

Shortly before MAXWELL returned to England, ZINN returned his call, at which time MAXWELL indicated he would return to the United States in about two weeks and would then in all probability make arrangements to personally visit Dr. ZINN and further discuss the matter. Dr. ZINN stated that there is no question about the caliber of the leading nuclear scientists in England and Western Europe supporting the "Journal." Dr. ZINN pointed out that such a journal would contain information of interest to scientists only, as contrasted with the American magazine "Nucleonics," which contains scientific data for popular appeal. He pointed out that this type of journal has been needed in this country, but that the cost of publication, because of the lack of advertising and limited number of subscribers, has been prohibitive.

ZINN commented that with Pergamon Press, an offshoot of the famous old German publishing house, Springer Press, willing to finance a publication of such a scientific magazine such as the "Journal of Nuclear Energy," he believes that American participation is the sensible thing to do. Regarding MAXWELL, ZINN stated that he knows nothing about him personally. He said that based on the caliber of men contacted by MAXWELL in the United States and the type of questions asked by MAXWELL, he knows of no reason to question MAXWELL'S motives in contacting various nuclear scientists in this country.

[REDACTED]

ZINN stated that he knows that MAXWELL has contacted Drs. H. F. STEL, WEINBERG, and JERRY LUNTZ, Editor of "Nucleonics," J. H. MENKE, President of Nuclear Development Associates, White Plains, New York, and JAMES BECKHALL, former Declassification Officer of AEC in Washington, D.C., who is now in private industry.

MISCELLANEOUS

It is noted that an attempt was made to interview Dr. LELAND HAWORTH, Director, Brookhaven

National Laboratory, Long Island, New York.

On November 18, 1954, Miss ANNA KISSEL, Secretary to Dr. HAWORTH, advised SA DANIEL F. O'CONNOR that Dr. HAWORTH, at the present time, is spending little time at Brookhaven. She stated that he was not expected back at Brookhaven until November 26, 1954, and that his stays are usually for only one day. Miss KISSEL stated that Dr. HAWORTH can be reached more readily c/o the Office of Defense Mobilization, Executive Office Building, 17th Street and Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C.

It is felt that an interview of Dr. HAWORTH would be duplication of effort inasmuch as MAXWELL'S purpose in contacting AEC officials during his recent visit to the United States has been established. In view of the above, a lead will not be set out to interview Dr. HAWORTH at this time.

Rerep of SA JAMES C. MOORE, JR., dated at Washington, D. C.

Enclosed are seven copies of referenced report.

Reference report indicated that on 10/25/54 subject made a telephone call to ST 3-8000, which was the telephone number of the Atomic Energy Commission and on 10/26/54, the subject received a call from Dr. LIBBY, Commissioner of the AEC.

Reference is made to Newark Airtel dated 11/2/54, where it was reported that Dr. JOHN VON NEUMANN a recently appointed AEC commissioner, was telephonically contacted by the subject on 10/26/54, at which time the subject requested Dr. VON NEUMANN to consider serving on the editorial board of the proposed Anglo-American edition of the "Journal of Nuclear Energy".
According to Dr. VON NEUMANN, the subject was also requesting Dr. LIBBY to serve on the editorial board.

Due to the above and in addition to the fact that several other AEC officials were contacted by the subject with the request that they serve on the editorial board of the above-mentioned journal, it is not believed that an interview of Dr. LIBBY would reveal any further information concerning the subject; therefore, UACB, Dr.
LIBBY will not be interviewed.

Reference report also set out a list of names of persons and their business connections whom subject stated he would attempt to contact and additional telephone numbers that subject called or attempted to call, which have not previously been reported. Inasmuch as all of the individuals interviewed to date at the AEC have reported that they were contacted by the subject in connection with the possibility of publishing an American edition of "Journal of Nuclear Energy" and requesting various American scientists to serve as editors on the American edition, it is felt that the subject's pattern of activities has been established along these lines.

No leads were set out in referenced report to contact the individuals mentioned to see if the subject had contacted them and likewise with the exceptions of the telephone calls made by the subject which have previously been reported, no additional leads along these lines were set out. It is being left to the discretion of the Office of Origin if additional leads to interview the reported contacts or possible contacts by subject should be set out.

SYNOPSIS OF FACTS:

AVERY JENNINGS WARNER reinterviewed 1/10/55. Circumstances of her meeting with subject in Atlanta in August, 1953, described. MAXWELL returned to Atlanta late in October, 1953 and stayed for a week or ten days. Both visits concerned with pre-fab housing venture. Last contact with him during weekend at Miami in March, 1954. All association connected with pre-fab housing venture. Circumstances of meeting with WALLERSTEINER set forth, together with identity of MAXWELL's associates in United States known to her.

-RUC-

DETAILS: AT WESTON, CONNECTICUT

AVERY JENNINGS WARNER was reinterviewed at her residence on Fanton Hill Road, Weston, Connecticut, on January 10, 1955 by the writer. She furnished the following information:

ASSOCIATION WITH CAPTAIN MAXWELL:

Mrs. WARNER advised that her first meeting with Captain MAXWELL was in Atlanta late in August, 1953. She was introduced by CHARLES GILSTEN, whom she identified in her previous interview. This introduction was made at the apartment of Mr. DAVID KOPLIN in the Howell House in Atlanta. KOPLIN was a close friend of CHARLES GILSTEN and he arranged a breakfast which was attended by MAXWELL, the purpose of which was to get various people together who were interested in a pre-fabricated housing venture, which she described in her earlier interview. She believes that KOPLIN had no prior or subsequent association with MAXWELL, merely acting as host on this occasion, on behalf of his friend, GILSTEN.

As previously described, the meeting between her and MAXWELL was for the purpose of discussing the decoration of the pre-fabricated housing, in which project the subject and GILSTEN were associated. KOPLIN, GILSTEN, MAXWELL and MAXWELL's associate, whom she identified as "Mr. WALLERSTEIN", were present.

MAXWELL and "WALLERSTEIN" left Atlanta that evening. The next time she saw MAXWELL was in New York on Columbus Day, October 12, 1953. She visited an apartment located over "British bookstore", which MAXWELL was occupying at that time. This visit was for the purpose of suggesting decorating ideas which MAXWELL was considering.

The next time she saw MAXWELL was late in October, 1953 when he returned to Atlanta. On this occasion papers were signed creating the corporation which was to construct and sell the pre-fabricated houses. However, as described in the earlier interview, one of the principals in this venture, a Mr. STOKES, died the same day the papers were signed, and this fact tied the deal up. MAXWELL stayed in Atlanta about a week or ten days for the purpose of attempting to get other real estate operators into the venture to replace STOKES. One such person was introduced to MAXWELL by Mrs. WARNER. She identified him as JERRY CORLEY, with whom she stated she had been keeping company at that time. CORLEY, however, told her that he had gotten a credit report of some kind on MAXWELL and that he did not like it. She also knew that he had had some rather heated discussions with MAXWELL on the American system of government verses the British system of government. One of the issues discussed was socialized medicine, as practiced in England, which MAXWELL defended and which CORLEY criticized.

As far as Mrs. WARNER could recall, MAXWELL never returned to Atlanta after his departure from that city early in November, 1953. She could recall only those persons referred to above as having known MAXWELL, with only one exception. Mrs. WARNER said MARY JANE MILLER, who now lives at 1932 N.E. 7th Street, Miami, was present during every meeting which she had with MAXWELL, but would not know anything about him that she, Mrs. WARNER, didn't know.

[REDACTED]

The next and final meeting with MAXWELL was in Miami in March, 1954. She had a phone call from MAXWELL and he said he wanted to talk with GILSTEN and herself in Miami concerning the pre-fab deal. She went to Miami under the impression that GILSTEN would also be there. Upon arriving, she registered at the Sans Souci Hotel, where MAXWELL was also registered. Evidently MAXWELL did not get in touch with GILSTEN since he did not put in an appearance. She arrived on Saturday morning and MAXWELL left on the following Monday morning.

Mrs. WARNER stated that she stayed on for the balance of the week. During the weekend however, she decided that nothing was going to come of the pre-fabricated housing venture and she made up her mind to drop it and look around for something else.

This was the last time she saw MAXWELL and except for one instance, the last she has heard concerning him. After she moved to New York from Atlanta in 1954, she received a call from GILSTEN, who indicated that MAXWELL was in some sort of trouble with the directors of "WALLERSTEIN'S" company concerning his use of company funds for his expenses.

The only persons associated with the subject at Atlanta, Miami, or New York, known to this source, have been identified in the foregoing she stated.

SUBJECT'S ALLEGED ASSOCIATION WITH INTELLIGENCE

Mrs. WARNER stated she could not give exact quotations, but on each of her several meetings with the subject he indicated by things he said that he had "connections with the British Government". She stated he always used the title "CAPTAIN I.R. MAXWELL". He told her in Atlanta that he had served in British Intelligence in World War II, and he had what he described as two bullet wounds near the chin-line on the right side of his face and neck where he was supposed to have been shot. He also told her, during one of their talks, that on one occasion he was scheduled to be shot by the Yugoslavs or one of the other Balkan governments.

In addition, as she previously indicated, MAXWELL was very proud and given to displaying his bulky passport. She described it as about the size of a "five year diary". In it he claimed to have visas and stamps from practically every country in the world, including Russia.

~~UNCLASSIFIED~~

[REDACTED]

During the negotiations in Atlanta concerning the pre-fab housing venture, the deal was tied up for several weeks awaiting MAXWELL's return to that city to sign papers. When he arrived in Atlanta it was with the explanation that he had been to Russia "for the British Government". He discussed what he had seen in Russia with her. In view of his claims to have served in British Intelligence during World War II, and his extensive travels since World War II, particularly his travel to the Soviet Union, Mrs. WARNER stated she was under the impression that he had current Intelligence connections with the British Government or at least tried to create that impression upon his associates. He did not however, say that this was the case in so many words and she stated she would not expect him to do so if it were the case.

RE: KURT WALLERSTEINER

MRS. WARNER stated she met an individual with MAXWELL, whose name she recalled as "Mr. WALLERSTEIN". She met him at the breakfast at KOPLIN's apartment in Atlanta at the same time she met MAXWELL. She understood that MAXWELL was managing "WALLERSTEIN'S" affairs. This was the only time she met "WALLERSTEIN". She understood he was an Austrian, who had been engaged in the chemical business and who had been forced into barter deals in payment for chemical products traded on the foreign market. She indicated in the earlier interview this was how "WALLERSTEIN" and MAXWELL came into possession of the pre-fab housing as she understood it. He and MAXWELL also indicated that they had a couple of boatloads of cement to sell, a quantity of silk which she thought might have been from China or Japan, and a quantity of baby bottles. She stated she knew nothing of any of these transactions aside from the affairs involving the pre-fabricated housing venture described above.

Re New Haven report, 1/17/55, which reflected the results of a reinterview with AVERY JENNINGS WARNER.

This reinterview completes extensive investigation regarding subject's travels, activities, interests, and contacts in the US during 1954.

A review of the information developed in this case reflects the following pertinent points:

[redacted]

3. A lengthy, extensive investigation regarding the subject's activities and contacts in the US and Canada has not revealed any espionage activities on the subject's part.

4. The AEC has been alerted by the Bureau of the subject's background and his interest in publishing an American "Journal of Nuclear Energy"

It is noted that interviews of numerous AEC officials contacted by the subject disclosed that he made no "out of the ordinary" or suspicious requests for information.

In view of the aforementioned reasons, this case is closed.

On 12/14/56, THEODORE AVERY, Assistant Director, Security Division, Atomic Energy Commission, Oak Ridge, Tennessee, advised SA FRANK M. IVES that on 2/13/56, a request was received by the Security Division at Oak Ridge from the Oak Ridge National Laboratory, requesting authorization for a proposed visit on the afternoon of 2/14/56 for IAN ROBERT MAXWELL to enter the limited area of the Oak Ridge National Laboratory at about 3:30 P. M., in order to see Dr. ALVIN M. WEINBERG, Director, ORNL. According to the request, the nature of the proposed visit was "discussions on new nuclear series," and Mr. AVERY stated that he was of the feeling that the nature of the discussions was to relate to unclassified papers presented during 1955 at the Atoms for Peace Conference in Geneva, Switzerland. Mr. AVERY pointed out that inasmuch as MAXWELL was an alien and because a substantial amount of information is on file with the Security Division of the AEC, Washington, D. C., he was concerned over the proposed visit of MAXWELL to Dr. WEINBERG. He advised that according to information received from his inquiries at AEC, Washington, D. C., MAXWELL represented the Pernam Press of London, England, adding that in informal discussions with Dr. DAVID COPE, Research and Medicine, AEC, Oak Ridge, recently, Dr. COPE had mentioned that Dr. WEINBERG, previously mentioned, had mentioned to him that about a month ago, MAXWELL had contacted him (WEINBERG) by telephone from London, England, requesting Dr. WEINBERG to fly to London to sit in on a technical conference for him. Dr. COPE stated that according to WEINBERG, the offer was declined; however, the reason for the declining of the offer was not made clear. According to Mr. AVERY, Dr. COPE also failed to indicate the significance of the proposed trip to London on the part of Dr. WEINBERG at the request of MAXWELL.

In connection with the proposed visit of MAXWELL at ORNL on 2/14/56, Mr. AVERY stated that the Security Division felt reluctant to refuse to permit the meeting and, in fact, was reluctant to prohibit the meeting in the limited area of ORNL and, in fact, in Dr. WEINBERG's office and, therefore, proposed to authorize this visit and to later request Dr. WEINBERG to advise the Security Division concerning the nature of MAXWELL's visit.

Above information is being submitted for the information of the Bureau as well as New York, in view of the previous interest in MAXWELL.

Previous investigation has revealed subject, a publisher, in 1954, contacted many AEC officials in regard to submitting unclassified technical articles in Atomic Energy field to newly created American version of "Journal of Nuclear Science," published in England by subject's company, the Pergamon Press. AEC was alerted by the Bureau of the subject's background and interests. Numerous interviews of AEC officials contacted by MAXWELL disclosed he made no extraordinary or suspicious requests for information.

In view of the above, no investigation of the subject's activities is believed warranted by the NYO, at this time, and this case will be maintained in a closed status. CLOSED.

SUBJECT: IAN ROBERT MAXWELL

According to a reliable informant the correct names of the Subject of this enquiry are IAN ROBERT MAXWELL and his former names were LODVIK ROCH. He was born in Czechoslovakia on 10th June 1923. His date of birth at times has been given as 10th June 1921 but this is believed to be incorrect. His place of birth in Czechoslovakia has been described as Seto, Slotina and Slatinskodre. This is believed to be the same place but as described in different languages, viz. Serbian, Polish and Russian.

Subject arrived in the United Kingdom from France in July 1940 with members of the Czechoslovakia Armed Forces. This was the time of the fall of France and when the Allied Forces were evacuated from France. He was a private in the Czechoslovakian Army at that time. With other foreign sections of the Armed Forces he was accomodated at a hostel for a time, and in October 1940 he and his comrades were incorporated into the Pioneer Corps of the British Army. Subject was later transferred from the Pioneer Corps to the Intelligence Corps of the British Army and served in that unit until the end of the war. He attained the rank of Captain in the British Army and was awarded the Military Cross which is a decoration for outstanding military service.

During his service with the British Army Subject was granted British nationality. Subject did not acquire British nationality by the normal process of naturalization but by virtue of his rank and duties with the Intelligence Corps, and this was not an uncommon procedure in such cases during the war years. At the time he acquired British nationality he changed his name to the one by which he is now known and this was a normal procedure also at this time. The normal naturalization procedure was not complied with and it would therefore be difficult to obtain precise details. British nationality was granted to such persons during the war years to protect them and to give them status.

Subject is therefore regarded as a naturalized British subject at the present time and is in possession of a British passport which, incidentally, gives his date of birth as 10 June 1923.

Subject is and has been connected with the under mentioned companies, details from the official records of which are as follows:

Registered number: 365650

Nominal Capital: 20,000 pounds in 1 pound shares

Registered Office: 39 Parker Street, W.C.2.

On 31st October 1951, IAN ROBERT MAXWELL, born 10.6.1923 was appointed a Director. His address was then given as 'Broomfield', Esher Park Road, Esher, Surrey.

On 8th July 1952, the Capital was increased to 80,000 pounds and the Registered Office shown as 242-244 Marylebone Road, N.W.1.

In the High Court of Justice, Chancery Division, Companies Court (No. 00304 of 1955) on Monday 2nd May 1955, before Mr. Justice Roxburgh, upon the Petition of MacMillan & Co. Registered Office St. Martins Street, City of London, a Court Order was made for the Company to be Wound Up.

Enquiries were made in commercial sources and in particular through informants in the publishing trade, and according to informants Subject is not considered to have a good business reputation, or to be a man of high integrity.

At the time of the Liquidation Proceedings in respect of SIMPKIN MARSHALL LTD., 242 Marylebone Road, N.W.1., Subject was strongly suspected of having unlawfully removed, or caused to be removed, from that Company's premises, confidential documents, including approximately 2,500 Adrema Addressing Machine plates, containing the names and addresses of export customers, which formed part of the assets of the liquidated Company, for use in his own Company, viz. I. R. MAXWELL & CO. LTD., 4/5 Fitzroy Square, W.1. The last mentioned Company was engaged almost exclusively in the export market of the bookselling trade. Subject was interrogated by the Official Receiver with regard to this matter, and was the subject of other official enquiries at the time, viz. June 1955, but no action was taken. Subject was formerly Managing Director and Chairman of SIMPKIN MARSHALL LTD. MR. C. T. CLARKE, Secretary of I. R. MAXWELL LTD. was suspected of being associated with Subject in connection with this matter.

Informants in commercial sources stated that at the end of Subject's service in the British Army during World War II, he was engaged upon propaganda and/or publicity assignments in Berlin, and that was the beginning of his career in the bookselling and publishing business.

Subject was at one time closely associated with WILLIAM KURT SAMUEL WALLERSTEINER (otherwise known as WILLIAM KURT WALLER), but following a financial disagreement, they are not now closely associated. WALLERSTEINER is a Director of the Anglo Commercial Bank, The Watford Chemical Co. Ltd. and other Companies, and is regarded as a man of substance and influence. However, he does not possess a good reputation and is suspected of being involved in dubious financial transactions. He is suspected of being associated with certain irregular business transactions with countries under Soviet domination which were the subject of criminal proceedings at the Central Criminal Court, Old Bailey, in 1955. It is suspected that he financed these transactions and his name was associated with the case, but he was not involved.

According to informants, Subject is stated to have been associated with persons of doubtful business integrity and doubtful business transactions and is described by our informants as ruthless and unscrupulous. Subject is regarded by informants as being financially stable.

According to confidential informants, Subject is at the present time resident at 'Broomfield', Esher Park Avenue, Esher, Surrey. The Register of Electors records the occupants of that address as I. R. MAXWELL and ELIZABETH J. MAXWELL. Also recorded in this Register is ALICE M. SLOANE, who is probably a domestic employee.

Enquiries have been conducted at Esher, Surrey, and according to informants, Subject resides at the address given with his wife and their seven children. He is stated to have been resident at this address for the past three years. The house is a large one, standing in its own grounds, with a swimming pool. Three foreign domestic servants are stated to be employed at the house. Local informants describe Subject and his wife as respectable and of good financial position. Nothing was known to the detriment of Subject in local official sources.

During the course of these enquiries a MRS. CARR, wife of the Headmaster of the school at which Subject's children attend was interviewed. MRS. CARR stated that Subject acquired control by some means of SIMPKIN MARSHALL LTD. after World War II, and this Company was subsequently liquidated with considerable losses to the Company's creditors and shareholders. MRS. CARR appeared to take the view that Subject gained by the Company's liquidation and stated that Subject was connected with a number of other businesses and deals of a dubious nature. She stated that Subject was a Czechoslovakian and was presumed to have changed his name by Deed Poll and not by naturalization. She stated that Subject's wife was of French nationality, and was a likeable person of genuine character. She stated that although Subject appears to have a good character his true character was not generally known as he confines himself to his own circle of business and personal associates.

MRS. CARR further stated that Subject has not been known to give expression to any political views and takes no part in local affairs. She described Subject as being "very rich" and stated that he spent a good deal of time abroad, particularly in Russia and Iron Curtain countries. A number of foreign persons visit Subject at his address from time to time.

MRS. CARR clearly distrusts and dislikes Subject, and stated that she considered him to be an opportunist who had made a considerable amount of money from unknown sources. She stated that Subject's business and personal life was obscure.

Enquiries were conducted in the vicinity of 16 Addison Crescent, West Kensington, W.8. but no further useful information was obtained. This address consists of three self-contained flats. Nothing was known to the detriment of Subject in local official sources.

Through confidential and reliable official sources and according to informants, Subject's movements and activities were the subject of investigation by British Security Authorities from 1945 until 1954. Subject travelled extensively during this period and made frequent visits to Iron Curtain countries. Although information is that Subject is no longer the subject of investigation by British Security Authorities, his movements to and from Iron Curtain countries continued to be noted, and it is understood that he visited Moscow as recently as April 1956. Subject's visits to Iron Curtain countries are alleged to be in connection with his bookselling and publishing business, and according to informants, his visit to Moscow in April 1956 was for business purposes on behalf of his Company, I. R. MAXWELL & CO. LTD.

According to informants, Subject has been known to make use of the alias LESLIE DU MAURIER.

According to reliable and confidential sources it was ascertained that Subject has frequently ventilated his opinions in letters to the press with regard to establishing and developing cultural relations with Russia and Iron Curtain countries, of which he appears to be strongly in favour. In a letter which Subject wrote to the editor of "The Times", and which appeared in the columns of that newspaper on 2nd February 1954, Subject advocated that books on cultural, technical and scientific subjects should be sent to Russia and Iron Curtain countries. According to our informants, Subject has for many years privately and publicly in the press, agitated on this subject. Informants state that Subject's commercial interest in the bookselling and publishing business might account for, in part, his agitation to develop an export trade in books on cultural and scientific subjects in Russia and Iron Curtain countries, and this would undoubtedly be very profitable to Subject in the commercial sense, but it is not considered that Subject's interest is solely commercial and it is not believed that he would go to such lengths as apparently he has done, unless he were activated by personal, or more probably political, motives. It is understood that Subject's letter which appeared in 'The Times' newspaper in February 1954, is typical of the letters which he has written to the press on this subject since the end of World War II. The clipping from "The New York Times" of February 2, 1954 is attached as Exhibit No. 1.

According to reliable and confidential informants, a man named KAPLAN, who was formerly connected with SIMPKIN MARSHALL LTD., is understood to be associated with Subject in the above connection, but to date no reliable information with regard to KAPLAN has been obtained.

Informants advised that Subject was present at a meeting of journalists and writers in February 1954, during the course of which the conversation turned to politics, and Subject became heatedly involved in this argument, apparently in favour of Communist political principles. Subject is stated to have become drunk during this discussion and to have produced a Communist Party membership card, which appeared to those present to be a valid one. MISS REBECCA WEST, the well known authoress, was stated to be present at this discussion.

According to informants, Subject is not a known member of the Communist Party in the United Kingdom, but considering his frequent visits to Russia and Iron Curtain countries, he might conceivably have become a member of the Communist Party in any of these countries.

According to informants, Subject is undoubtedly sympathetic to Communist Party aims and principles, and has been suspected by the Security Authorities for a number of years of Communist Activities.

In the above connection it is, of course, possible that Subject's previous Intelligence activities with the Allied Forces during World War II, plus his published statements and visits to the Iron Curtain countries, caused the Security Authorities to investigate his activities, and that, although sympathetic to Communist political aims, he is not engaged in Communist activity.

According to informants, Subject has not been convicted of any criminal offence, and not at any time the subject of official enquiry excepting for an occasion in November 1942 when he came under official notice for being in possession of a Czechoslovakian Army Officer's uniform without authority. No action was taken against Subject in connection with this matter, although it was regarded seriously at the time. It is possible that Subject had this uniform in his possession for the purposes of his Intelligence duties and this was the reason no official action was taken.

Subject's wife is ELIZABETH JENNY JEAN and she was born in Paris on the 11th March 1921.
Nothing is known to her detriment.

According to confidential and reliable sources,
Subject in 1954 was said to have obtained financial backing for his business from HAMBRO'S BANK,
City of London, but to date no reliable information has been obtained to substantiate this.

SOVIET CONCESSIONS ON BOOKS

PROSPECTS FOR BRISKER TRADE WITH BRITAIN

Anglo-Soviet trade in books promises to become brisker. That is the impression with which CAPTAIN I. R. MAXWELL, chairman and managing director of Simpkin Marshall, Ltd., the publishing wholesalers, has returned from a 10-day visit to Moscow.

Captain Maxwell, who was a forerunner of the trade mission from Britain now in Russia, had what he regards as some amicably co-operative discussions with the chairman of Mezinarodnaja Kniga, the Government agency for the import and export of literature. One of the main subjects was copyright. Captain Maxwell produced a circular sent to all institutes and chemists in Russia asking them to buy a Russian photo-offset edition of the "Dictionary of Organic Compounds", and he asked the Russians, as a gesture of good will, to buy the original British edition published by Eyre and Spottiswoode, and also the British edition of Grove's "Dictionary of Music" (Macmillan). The Russians agreed.

With that ground won, Captain Maxwell moved on to the general question of copyright. Here, the Russians stated that some British publishers reprint Russian books without seeking consent. Captain Maxwell pointed out, however, that if the Soviet Union signed the Berne convention on copyright there could be no "pirating," and Russia would benefit, particularly in music rights.

"If the international Publishers' Association and Government authorities take this matter up now," said Captain Maxwell, "in view of the Russian change of attitude and their anxiety to make gestures towards the west, I believe there is a good chance of something coming of it."

The second Russian concession was an agreement to buy "substantially larger numbers" of British books, particularly in the fields of science, technology, and medicine, and to lower, or perhaps to remove, the obstacles that have checked the flow of Russian technical periodicals to the west.

Relet requested Legat, London, verify MAXWELL's service in British Intelligence.

Inasmuch as there is no investigation to be conducted by the NYO at this time, instant case will be maintained in a pending inactive status awaiting the receipt of information from Legat, London. Upon receipt of that information, the NYO will consider the advisability of preparing a report which would incorporate the information forwarded by the Legat, London; that furnished by the Bureau in relet; as well as information collected since the completion of active investigation of the subject in 1955.

Available information will be studied to determine if additional investigation of the subject is warranted.

AIMS AND PURPOSE OF THE INSTITUTE

- I To establish a Translation Panel of competent and highly qualified translators from Russian and other Slavonic languages into English; and to make available the services of the Institute and its Translation Panel to scientists, learned societies, government agencies and industry throughout the world on a non-profit making basis. The Institute shall charge its customers for these services on a co-operative cost-sharing plan.
- II To encourage, co-ordinate and foster (by the holding of Symposia, for instance) the teaching of Russian at higher seats of learning; and to provide the teaching institutions with the necessary textbooks and tools of learning which will enable non-Russian speaking scientists to acquire quickly a working knowledge of Russian sufficient for them to read Russian scientific literature.
- III To sponsor and foster research into the organization of scientific information, mechanical systems for storing and retrieving information, and mechanical translation.
- IV To assist and advise learned societies and professional bodies on their publication problems with a view to reducing the cost of printing and distribution of their publications in the interests of the wider and more efficient dissemination of scientific information.
- V To translate and disseminate such of the scientific, technical and medical literature printed in Russian and other Slavonic languages, which, in the opinion of competent scientific advisors, will be of definite benefit and value to scientists not speaking these languages.
- VI To establish and publish, with the assistance of the appropriate scientific institutions in the U.S.S.R., a series of monographs in the English language reviewing progress in broad areas of Soviet scientific activity.
- VII
 - A. To publish a journal devoted to reporting translation work done anywhere in the world from Russian and other Slavonic languages into English in the fields of science, technology and medicine in order to prevent duplication.
 - B. To serve as a forum in which Soviet and non-Russian speaking scientists will be able to discuss problems of common concern — both scientific and administrative.
 - C. To be a place where people engaged in the teaching of Russian to non-Russian speaking scientists can report their experiences and exchange information which will be of assistance to persons working in this field.
- VIII To compile and publish specialized dictionaries from and into Russian and the principal Slavonic languages for subjects where such dictionaries are lacking.

SUBJECT: DAVID I. NAIKIN
Information Concerning93-622-2 186 E 164 St 13
65-0-10956
135-17-8

Subject called this date and advised that he is in NYC staying at 110 Riverside Drive (no phone) and that he is here seeking to see his wife and family in Brooklyn. He stated that his wife obtained a fraudulent divorce from him in California and that she and her brother IAN ROBERT MAXWELL (aka IVAN HOCHMAN SEATINSKE) 122 E. 55th St., NYC had him committed to a Mental Institution in Calif. and that they have about threatened his life in NYC. He stated that they have tried to poison his coffee and that he still has the coffee and would like to have the FBI check it.

Subject was incoherent at times during interview and appeared to be mentally unstable.

It is to be noted that the subject called the writer the evening of 9/26/57 and was completely incoherent.

Subject was advised to contact the police department concerning threats against his life and the poison coffee

January 2nd, 1958

Office of the Attorney General
Department of Justice
Constitution Avenue
Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir:

Recently I have taken over the Regional Editorship (North American Continent) of a new International Journal of Organic Chemistry, TETRAHEDRON, published by the Pergamon Press Inc., 122 East 55th Street, New York City. The Press also publishes perhaps twenty (20) other journals in science. It is run by Captain Ian R. Maxwell, British citizen.

This new journal of organic chemistry is the first one to have been published with the conscious view to encouraging the direct exchange of information at the international level. Specifically, this means that papers are being accepted and encouraged from behind the Iron Curtain (an eminently satisfactory system for international communication throughout the Western world in organic and chemical matters has long been in existence). Maxwell has achieved an astounding degree of success in evincing cooperation from Russia and its satellites. This I have learned from the fact that A. N. Nesmeyanov is my counterpart for that area and that outstanding chemists in Poland, Yugoslavia, Hungary, have agreed to serve on the Honorary Editorial Advisory Board. Beyond that, many articles were submitted to the Journal for inclusion in its first issue and the subsequent ones.

It is the usual custom of the Russians to order, through some organization of which I am in ignorance, one copy each of our scientific journals, translate into Russian, and reprinted for distribution there. As an encouragement to this new Journal, TETRAHEDRON, this procedure has been altered, and according to Maxwell, somewhat more than one hundred (100) copies have been ordered for distribution in Russia.

Maxwell travels freely behind the Iron Curtain, to Budapest, Moscow, Peking, to name but a few of the places he mentioned.

He appears to have surprisingly large funds available to support a type of activity which, on the surface, would not appear to be a very profitable one. Quite a number of us who are serving on the Editorial Board of one or another of his publications are, to say the least, amazed at the scale with which he operates. (In the two or three instances with which I am personally familiar, Maxwell has obtained the most impressive list of editors by getting one truly outstanding man to found a new Journal. In the case of TETRAHEDRON, this is the old, well-known Nobelists, Sir Robert Robinson of England. Then, at the personal request of this distinguished founder, we have agreed to serve in subsidiary positions.)

Not knowing precisely where in the United States to find out whether co-operation with Maxwell is in my interest and that of the United States, I am writing to you for information.

Enclosed is a front cover of the Journal. In this you will notice that the late Professor Morris S. Kharasch is listed as editor for the American continent. It is his position which I recently took over.

On 2/15/61 and 3/10/61, Mrs. VIVION CAINE, Sales Secretary, National Planning Association (NPA), 1606 New Hampshire Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C., advised that her office received two requests from subject firm, 103-5th Ave., New York 3, NY, to send the following NPA publications to Kultura Konyvimport, Budapest 53 POB 1 Hungary. The publications are as follows, "The Creole Petroleum Corporation in Venezuela" and "The Future of Latin American Exports." The above publications are unclassified and the request will be honored according to Mrs. CAINE.

On 3/13/61, Mrs. ULDA ELDRED, Foreign Agents Registration Section, Internal Security Division, U.S. Department of Justice, advised that subject firm has not registered with that Section as an agent of a foreign principal under the FARA 1938 as amended.

It would appear subject firm may have entered into an agreement with Kultura Konyvimport, Budapest, Hungary, for the purchase of United States publications which would require it to register under the FARA 1938 as amended.

NYO should attempt to ascertain the extent of the relationship between subject firm and Kultura Konyvimport and furnish same to the Bureau for a determination from the Justice Department if their registration should be solicited under the FARA.

CHARLES C. THOMAS, PUBLISHER;
Shipment of Books to Iron
Curtain Countries
IS: RA

Reurlet, 2/27/61.

The NYO has carefully reviewed the files concerning different book companies in NYC, who from time to time, ship books to Iron Curtain countries through CHARLES C. THOMAS. It is not believed necessary, at this time, for the Springfield Office to obtain complete listings of all books ordered by NY book companies and sent to the Iron Curtain countries through THOMAS. It is requested, however, that arrangements be made with THOMAS that when information comes to his attention indicating that Iron Curtain countries are attempting to purchase books or publications of a scientific or technical nature, that this information be made available to the Springfield Office. Springfield should thereafter advise the appropriate office covering the territory where the individual book seller is located, in communication suitable for dissemination. It is felt that this should be done, however, only in those instances when THOMAS receives requests for scientific and technical type books or other publications not readily available to the general public.

The only exception to the above instances pertains to the Four Continent Book Corp. Springfield is requested to continue to receive from THOMAS a list of all books purchased or ordered by this corporation.

On 1/6/89, [redacted]
[redacted] currently associated with Paul Chamberlain, Int'l, (703) 749-7710, called writer. [redacted] advised his firm was involved in some business dealings in London, England, in the course of which it had learned one person representing those with whom it would be doing business was one 'ROBERT MAXWELL'.

b7D

[redacted] stated that, from other descriptive data available to his firm, another of his Chamberlain associates, [redacted] had recognized MAXWELL as IAN ROBERT MAXWELL, [redacted] [redacted] about whom it had been alleged he was an "unscrupulous businessman" who had been "recruited by the Soviets for espionage purposes". (The case was closed in 1964, [redacted] [redacted] partly because he was expected to become Labor Party Minister of Science under Prime Minister HAROLD WILSON and thus attain "a position of high international prominence", [redacted]

b7D
b3
b7E

[redacted] wanted to offer his assistance should MAXWELL still be of interest to the NYO and stated, if he were not of interest, Chamberlain Int'l would go ahead with its business dealings.

On 1/9/89, writer advised [redacted] we had no pending interest in MAXWELL.

Re SF A/T, dated April 13, 1989, captioned as above.

For information of receiving offices, a search of New York Office (NYO) indices under IAN ROBERT MAXWELL reveal voluminous amounts of information pertaining to MAXWELL and Pergamon corporation dating back to 1953, when source information revealed that MAXWELL along with KURT WALLERSTEINER were partners in the firm Anglo-Continental Exchange Ltd. London, a scientific publishing and book selling company. At that time, source information had it that MAXWELL and WALLERSTEINER were both ambitious and unscrupulous businessmen who had allegedly been recruited by the Soviet Intelligence Service (SIS) for espionage purposes.

RUGGE advised that INFORMATION ON DEMAND's (IOD) sources include over 250 computer data bases which provide information in two main categories, research and document delivery.

According to RUGGE, all data bases that IOD has access to provide only public source information and nothing of a known or sensitively classified nature. She explained that it is a data base called the Defense Technical Center which is connected to the Department of Defense (DOD) which contains classified information, however, IOD has no password for access and further no need for access.

RUGGE advised that requests of IOD are approximately 50% business related and 40% technical and medicine related. She advised that IOD taps most publicly available computerized data bases including Lockheed's Dialog, System Development Corporation's Orbit, the New York Times Information Bank, the National Library of Medicine's MEDLARS, and the Bibliographic Retrieval Service.

Relative to research, RUGGE advised that IOD provides information to the business, technical, and professional communities, as well as to individuals. According to RUGGE, IOD can locate single facts as well as provide answers to complex questions dealing with such areas as comprehensive marketing research, custom data summaries, sophisticated literature searching, current awareness service, and global information capability.

Relative to document delivery, RUGGE advised that IOD locates photocopies or acquires published information in any form, whether they are manuals, conference papers, patents, or theses, as well as reports, catalogues, brochures, articles, etc. She advised that requests are received at IOD by telephone, mail, and electronically, and that information is sent to clients by the same means.

RUGGE advised that under the law and government heading, IOD has access to the American Statistics Index (ASI) and Congressional Information Service (CIS), the Commerce Business Daily, the Congressional Record Abstracts, the Criminal Justice Periodical Index, the Federal Index,

According to RUGGE, the [Lenin State Library] has been a client of IOD for at least ten years and it would be impossible to recall all the information requested by them, except for the last year, as records are not kept beyond that period. RUGGE advised she does not know if any of the requests of the [Lenin State Library] would be considered as related to any aspect of technology transfer. RUGGE expressed a genuine willingness to cooperate with the FBI and offered to provide the FBI all information available to her relative to requests made by the [Lenin State Library] during the last year. Additionally she advised that if for some reason a future request by the [Lenin State Library] was deemed inappropriate by the Bureau, she would refuse to fill that order. RUGGE advised she would prefer to continue business with the [Lenin State Library] however as many of their requests do not appear to technically related. According to RUGGE, her company presently is receiving approximately six requests every two months from the Lenin State Library. (S) (U)

RUGGE presented a representative sampling most recent request from the [Lenin State Library] which disclosed that interest does not lie in one specific area. (S) (U)
